

EVERYONE WINS!

co-parenting can work for all

We rely on each other...and work together to raise our child.

My baby is supported and loved by both sides of her family.

Co-parenting helps me accomplish all my goals!

We are really lucky to have support from so many people. And if we ever need anything, they'll be there for us.

My family and friends have my back. It's just what I need to be a great dad.

When we are having a rough time, our parents share their wisdom and stories with us.

B'more for Healthy Babies.
Every baby counts on you
healthybabiesbaltimore.com

This publication was supported by Award No.1 SP1AH000065-01-00 from the Office of Population Affairs (OPA), Maryland Department of Health, and Baltimore City Health Department. Its contents are solely the responsibility of the authors and do not necessarily represent the official views of OPA, HHS, MDH, or BCHD.